

Denver, April 11, 2005

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

DigaNET's HDVAR full motion digital video and audio recorder was the digital video and surveillance platform selected and used by Digatron, Inc. at the Colorado Convention Center, Denver, Colorado.

Denver systems integrator Digatron, Inc. takes home 2005 Sammy Award at ISC West in Las Vegas for the coveted Integrated Commercial /Industrial Installation of the Year.

Tony Ibarra, CEO, Faustino "Greg" Ibarra, President and Michael Zawinski, Publisher for SSI magazine were on a hand at the Venetian Casino Resort to accept this prestigious award given out annually by Security Sales & Integration Magazine. The SAMMYS (Sales & Marketing Awards) honor security dealers and systems integrators who exemplify professionalism in their sales, marketing and installation efforts. This is the 10th year for the awards, third for Digatron being nominated as a national finalist. The Grand Prize Award was announced March 30, 2005 on the occasion.

"Digatron of Denver took home the prize for Integrated Commercial / Industrial Installation of the Year for its work on Denver's new Colorado Convention Center". Digatron integrated access control, alarm monitoring, intercom and full-motion CCTV recording at the convention center, as featured on SSI electronic news site. The DigaNET™ HDVAR digital recorder installed, records all 192 cameras in full motion video for one month, economically using MPEG-4-AVC 10 compression. When compared to MPEG 4, the system offers 3 times the resolution at 1/3 the file sizes of comparable technologies.

For more details visit: http://www.securitysales.com/t_ci_newsView.cfm?nid=2206

For more information on DigaNET HDVAR and its advantages to your customers, Contact: Charles B. Kirmuss, CTO, tel: 303.455.9545, ckirmuss@digatronsecurity.com